Temporary Restorative Material

tgrestotemp Temporary Restorative Material is a Z.O.E. Type III Intermediary Restorative Material

• For Odontological intermediate restorations, particularly in odontopediatrics

• For use with rampant carries where the de-mineralized tissue should all be removed from the cavity as fast as possible to reduce the concentration of carriogenic bacteria and prevent the processes that produces carries. During this time the teeth ought to be protected by tgrestotemp which is a restoration of intermediate duration

• tgrestotemp can also be used for bases or as temporary cement. It also has the advantage of protection and healing the pulp
